Every successful investment advisor or wealth planner needs to have current and effective structures and strategies for their clients. Increasingly the high tax jurisdictions are restricting the choices and products available for use on the international stage. As a high tax jurisdiction, New Zealand presents a variety of structures that enable planners and advisors to structure client assets safely, effectively and for the long term.

The latest exciting development from New Zealand is the Look Through Company (“LTC”) regime. The LTC is able to be used on its own or as a part of the larger structure, providing a reputable jurisdiction with very favourable tax advantages for the client.

Peter Wyllie is a Barrister and Solicitor of the High Court of New Zealand. He is a member of STEP and has authored and co-authored a number of articles for both domestic and international legal and advisory publications and co-authored a specialised legal text dealing with trusts. Peter has presented at numerous seminars both domestic and international on issues such as pre-migration planning, asset structuring, Syariah compliance, and good governance.
